

Synopsis

An aspiring filmmaker puts up a poster for an upcoming film festival. She's eager to take part in it and sets about making her own movie. The moviemaking process takes a turn for the worse and the disillusioned girl slowly loses hope. One evening, the animator collapses completely and trashes her hard work in a fit of anger. But from between the sketches, one drawing emerges to cheer up its creator by fooling around, but to no avail. The drawing starts to feel hopeless as well as it can't fix the animators despair yet...
